Dear Parents/Carers,

As you know, Year 6 have a rigid revision programme for Maths that we will be following in the weeks leading up to their SATs. I can't believe it myself, but that time has arrived! They have all received a copy of their own revision book that the school has provided for them, which they will be bringing home each night to work in. The expectation is that a double page is done each night; the book is brought in to school EVERY DAY and work will be marked and support in class given to the children that require it. Only 1 page to be done over the weekend.

We have used this revision programme over the last few years with amazing success and we have had great dedication from the children, as I am sure we will have this year.

Each page is broken down into three challenges, each getting progressively harder. The children should have a go at all three, however they may need some support in certain areas. If a substantial amount of support has been given to the child, could an 's' be marked by the question so we can then give further support.

We will be sending home some 'cheat sheets' to guide yourselves and the children through areas should you need them.

We appreciate your support with this process and hope that you will start to see the benefits in your child's confidence.

Many Thanks

Miss T Durling
